Points from the Editors

Welcome to the summer edition of your LEI News. After a 'fallow' year, we are delighted to announce that the LEI News has been awarded the CompassSport Newsletter Award for 2017. This would not happen without the fabulous articles and photographs that you send to us for publication, so this is a heartfelt thank you to you all, and please keep your articles coming.

This year has seen a new annual award of the Chairman's Tankard, which Chris Phillips awarded to Alastair Paterson, the first recipient, so well done, Alastair!

With regard to articles in this current newsletter, we urge you to read the safeguarding article on page 7, as we all have a duty to safeguard those in our sport. Additionally, you may be aware that there is a new law which came into force with effect from 25th May, 2018, called the General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR). Steve Chafer has put together an excellent article (page 10) making it clear what data is held and what it is used for. This legislation replaces the Data Protection Act.

Good luck to the juniors taking part in the YBT final on 1st July. Fingers and toes crossed for another podium finish. You can read more about this on page 4.

Finally, after the Beast from the East 1 and 2, one of which caused the cancellation of our major LEI event in Belvoir, the warmer weather has arrived, so let's make the most of it. Happy orienteering!

Wendy and Alan West

Ramblings from the Chair

In orienteering terms, it has been an 'interesting' few months. I cannot remember a winter when so many events have fallen foul of the bad weather, including, of course, our own Belvoir Event.

Standing ankle deep in snow in the Belvoir Castle car park and looking at the disappointment on the face of my fellow event officials, and sensing their frustration at seeing two years' hard work disappear in a few hours of snowfall, was perhaps one of the lowest times for me as your club chairman.

Making up for the disappointment of Belvoir was super Saturday at Irchester. Wearing one of my other hats, as chair of British Orienteering's Events and Competition Committee, I am on the receiving end of a lot of comments on the major events. It says a lot for the quality of the Irchester event that, for once, I didn't get any negative comments. Many thanks to the major officials for both events and to all those club members who volunteered to help over the weekend. Let's hope that we have better luck with the weather for our next level A event, the British Sprint Championships, in September 2019.

British Orienteering has recently published a new strategy document for developing junior participation - 'Every Junior Matters'. Your club committee will be discussing how this can be best implemented in LEI at the May meeting. Reading the document, I was reminded of a poster I saw recently at a junior football club. It read, 'This is not the world cup, it's only a game, we are here for fun, don't abuse the ref, don't shout at your kids'. I trust that, in LEI, our juniors are only here for the fun!

As I write this on a glorious early May Bank Holiday evening, it seems a little early to be talking about the end of the summer league (two events completed, 17 to go!). However, as always, we will be having an end of league presentation and buffet after the last event on 22nd August. This year, there will be a change. Instead of the usual buffet, we are having a barbecue at the Black Horse at Aylestone. Catering arrangements will necessitate club members pre-booking (it will still be free). More details as the summer progresses.

In the autumn, EMOA will be running another Regional Training Day. Among the courses on offer will be Controller, Organiser and Planner. If you would like to provisionally book a place on one of the courses, please have a chat with me at an event.

Captain's Corner

The LEI junior squad was in action for the first time in 2018 at the joint EMOA/WMOA regional heat of the Yvette Baker Trophy. Thankfully, LEI was hosting the YBT heat at Cademan Woods, enabling home advantage. As LEI was placed 3rd in the 2017 competition, LEI was the team to beat. Thankfully, after some tough courses at Cademan, our junior squad came joint first with OD and progress to the final. The 2018 final for the Yvette Baker Trophy is being held on 1st July at Arrow Valley Country Park near Redditch. I am optimistic that we can repeat last year's success and once again make it onto the podium.

This year's CompassSport heat was held at Shouldham Warren, hosted by WAOA, on 11th March. As the heat was even further than last year's in LOG country, I wasn't hopeful that we would get a full team to Shouldham Warren. However, 42 club members made the long trek to Norfolk. Sadly, home advantage to NOR, saw LEI narrowly beaten into 2nd place by 22 points. As always in the CSC heat, the club with the largest team won. I am hoping that on 17th March, 2019, the whole club will take part in the heat at Sherwood Pines and that we will progress to the 2019 final.

At this year's JK Festival, we had several podium finishes. A special mention must go to Don Moir, who completed a clean sweep at the JK. Other podium finishes were Daniel Glover (2nd - sprints), Andy Simpson (3rd - sprints, 2nd - day 2, 2nd - day 3). This year, LEI had two teams in the JK Relays, one competing in the JK Trophy (course A) and one in the Men's Short (course C). Our JK Trophy produced a very respectable 22nd place. Unfortunately, our Men's Short team had a miss punch.

Also, a huge congratulations to Iain Phillips, who was selected for the British Orienteering Team to compete at the European Trail Orienteering Championships in Slovakia.

I am on the lookout for a couple of volunteers to help look after the juniors at the Peter Palmer Junior Relays on the 8th/9th September. It will suit those members who love volunteering for very unusual and quirky events.

Junior Captain's Corner

The juniors have had a very successful start to the year, as we have qualified for the national final of the Yvette Baker Trophy. Everyone did extremely well and there were a lot of LEI juniors who finished in the top three in their category – Imogen, Harrington, Caitlin, Ben, Iona, Matilda and Robyn. Well done to all of the juniors that participated. We now need a really good turnout at the final on 1st July at Arrow Valley Park. Hopefully, we can keep the podium position that we attained last year. I hope to see all the juniors there!

Many LEI juniors have attended the EMJOS training sessions so far this year. The first training day was a very cold, snowy day in January at Mansfield Woodhouse, where the squad created a fantastic video that can be found on the EMJOS website. Then, in February, many LEI juniors attended the equally cold training weekend in the Lake District, where the squad found yet more snow. But, in April, the weather finally improved as the squad spent a sunny weekend training and competing in Yorkshire at Wass. However, the good weather did not last and at the next training day at Cademan, EMJOS were joined by WMJS for another cold and wet day. Overall, despite the weather, there has been a good LEI turnout to regional training events, which have been very useful and great fun.

I hope to see many of the juniors at some of the LEI summer league events, when we can all fit in the races around exams!

Safeguarding

As a club, we are committed to ensuring the safeguarding and welfare of all those involved in our sport. As the LEI Club Welfare Officer, I am pleased to report that British Orienteering will now be sending all Club Welfare Officers regular updates to ensure that we are aware of the latest safeguarding policies and practices, which, in turn, I will share with you.

British Orienteering's primary responsibility is to ensure that safeguarding concerns, and any relevant information, are reported and, where appropriate, passed onto the police and children's social care without delay. One of the mechanisms that British Orienteering has to facilitate the reporting of potential safeguarding concerns is a safeguarding email address, which allows individuals to directly report concerns to the Lead Safeguarding Officer. Reports could include any concerns about the welfare of children, either within orienteering or outside of orienteering, and any concerns over adult behaviour related to the welfare of children. Therefore, if you have any safeguarding concerns now or in the future, could you please contact British Orienteering directly on their safeguarding email address, which is: safeguarding@britishorienteering.org.uk.

Volunteers Please!

JIRCS 2018

This September, DVO is hosting, on behalf of the region, the UK Junior Inter Regional Championships (JIRC). Below is a letter from the weekend co-ordinator, Sarah Pennell, asking for helpers. As many LEI Juniors will be taking part, I hope that club members will volunteer. Please note that the Sunday morning relays will be followed by the EMOA Score Championships at the same venue – Carsington Pastures.

If you are able to help, please respond direct to Sarah.

Chris Phillips

Dear Club Member,

As you may know, East Midlands Orienteering Association are hosting this year's Junior Inter Regional Competition on 29th and 30th of September 2018 and many of our young athletes will be taking part.

Plans are well in hand for the individual run on Saturday at the Chatsworth Estate and the relay competition on Sunday morning at Carsington Pastures (before the East Midlands Score Champs event in the afternoon).

We need to ask for volunteers to help with jobs such as assisting at the start and finish and marshalling for gates etc. We will need help for both Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday between 10am and 4pm (Starts are after 12:30)

Sunday we have to cover from 7am to around 1pm (starts at 9am).

If you are able to help then please let us know which day and time you are available, along with your contact details and we will get back to you once we have collated the list.

This promises to be a great event in our area so please try to find time to be part of the team and help make this event a great success.

Many thanks

Bradgate: Come and Try It (CATI)

The final Bradgate 'Come and Try It' (CATI) has come and gone and, for the month of April, various members of LEI managed to drag themselves from their sofas, computer screens or whatever LEI members do on Saturdays, and join Maureen, Kevin G. and me, on 'The Flats' in Bradgate Park. The reason? To promote LEI and orienteering as a sport for all.

This all started back in 2017 when the Bradgate Trust held a bit of a craft fair at their offices in the centre of the park. We were invited to put something on for the visitors, so we agreed and had a fun game and a short course for those who wanted to join in. Sadly, the day was a complete washout. The Heavens opened and there were very few in the park. However, we all agreed that it might be a good idea to do something just for the Club, so the CATI was born, in conjunction with the Trust's Education Officer, Nicole.

Our first three Saturdays were blessed with beautiful weather and the park was busy. After encouraging the first couple of people to try the maze, we had a constant flow of competitors and even had a few try the orienteering course (using the permanent orienteering plaques). The final Saturday, well, that was a bit of a damp squib. It drizzled continuously, yet, nonetheless, we did have a few who braved the maze and the o-course.

We'd like to thank those who made the effort to join us in this venture. We'd also like to thank the Bradgate Trust for letting us into the park and Nicole for facilitating the events. We've learned quite a lot from this and, although they were a success, next time it will be done differently.

Send a Text Message to 999

On a recent first aid course, we learnt of an extra safety facility, especially useful for those who spend time in the hills or remote places.

It is possible to register your mobile phone number with the emergency services, so that as well as calling them on 999, you can send a text message. In an area with poor or intermittent reception, a text will get through better than a call. If you find yourself in a situation where you don't want others to know you are sending for help, e.g. contacting the police, a text can be sent silently.

To register your mobile, send a one word text message register to 999. You will receive an automated reply explaining the system. You need to read it and then text yes in reply. You then receive a second message confirming you are registered.

If you need to use the text service, you should give the same information as you would when calling: the service you require; details of the incident; where you are and any other information to assist in locating you.

All you mountain marathon, fell or trail runners should register before your next event.

Sue Bicknell

Hill Walkers Warned about Magnets in Clothing

Magnets in outdoor clothing and on phone covers raise the risk of hill walkers making navigational errors, Mountaineering Scotland has warned. The group said magnets were increasingly being used as fastenings on items such as gloves. Mountaineering Scotland said a recent incident in Glen Shee was thought to have been caused by a magnetic fastening deflecting a compass needle. It said a group of walkers had wrongly headed east instead of west. They then became disorientated in low cloud and ended up miles away from a road that would have led them to safety.

Heather Morning, Mountain Safety Adviser for Mountaineering Scotland, said: Fortunately no-one was hurt - just pride dented - but it could have turned out so much worse, had mountain conditions been more severe. The reason for the error was the compass. It had been stored in a pocket next to a mobile phone in a case which had a magnetic closure on it, and the magnet had reversed the polarity of the compass needle, so that the north arrow pointed south.

The phenomenon of reversed polarity has been publicised previously in mountaineering circles. People are advised to keep their compasses well away from mobile phones. Mountaineering Scotland said it was concerned by the growing use of magnetic closures in outdoor clothing. Ms. Morning said: Modern technology is great. The resources available now to keep us warm and safe in the mountains have never been better. But more joined-up thinking is needed between outdoor clothing manufacturers and mountain users to avoid potentially life-threatening consequences.

Out and About

The Summer League had its usual start - wet, of course. We have, however, just had some great sunny days, and flowers and blossoms abound, with the birds suddenly in overdrive.

I was lucky enough to watch water voles in a stream near Winchester recently and it is good to see them making a bit of a comeback. If going to Kielder Water, you may be lucky enough to see this old friend: Ratty is back! Over 500 water voles have been released there in two waves over the last 12 months. As otters repopulate our rivers and out-compete mink, the voles are creeping back. There are quite a lot of otters in Leicestershire now, so hopefully the voles will return as well.

I used to delight in the occasional sightings of Peregrine Falcons when out on the rocky moors, but I see them fairly frequently in the heart of Leicester these days. Many of our major cities have them breeding on high rooftops and thriving off the readily available prey, the pigeons. It is, perhaps, as well, as increasing numbers of raptors are being killed in our rural areas.

It might not surprise you, but animals breed as their numbers increase and, as habitats shrink, they have learned to adapt to the areas where we would often prefer they stayed out of. They are invading our parks and, increasingly, our gardens as the natural countryside dwindles. The fox is a familiar figure in our urban areas, but the Muntjac, our smallest deer, is almost as common in some urban areas and badgers in some others.

One of our few native deer, the roe deer was largely extinct in many areas of England 50 years ago, but names associated with it were everywhere. How many pubs called the Roebuck or the Buck Inn have you come across? They are now making a comeback as woodland cover is increased, and are greatly helped by the reduction in gaps between woodland blocks, which is being brought about by the creation of community woodlands near habitation. They are now widespread in many areas where they had been missing for years and there are thought to be between 350,000 and 500,000 of them now in Britain. You can see how common they once were, not only in the names of pubs but also the names of villages like Bucknall, Buckfast, Buckfastleigh, Buckenham, Buckhorn, Buckhaven, Buckerell, Buckminster, Buckden and Buckland. It is odd how some animal names invade our language.

Deer are a very real problem. In our remaining wild areas, they prevent natural regeneration of plants and trees, and closer to home they can also cause problems. Given there is resistance to reintroducing wolves or lynx, we need to find other ways to manage the deer population, in particular both to keep them from areas we do not want to see them but also to ensure their welfare, protecting them from starvation by overgrazing, and from injury in road traffic accidents. There are thought to be over 50,000 accidents involving deer across the country each year. The UK deer population is thought to be up to about six million.

In the absence of a natural predator, sustainable management of deer usually means that they have to be culled. Approaching 400,000 are culled in the UK every year, but despite this and road kills, their population continues to grow.

Wolves would be a solution, but would also bring other problems. The wolf hasn't existed in the wild in Britain since the 1700s, but has never really left us. We 'wolf' down our food and 'keep the wolf from the door'. We suffer from 'lone wolf' attacks, but sometimes 'cry wolf'. We have a 'wolf in sheep's clothing' and have been 'thrown to the wolves'. Also, women are all too familiar with 'wolf whistles'. We have the poisonous plant 'wolf's bane', so named as it is dangerous, and there is a plant named as 'wolf-like' because it survives in remote wild places. As such, it was described by the Latin word pronounced 'loopin' (the Lupin, genius lupinus)

Closer to home I am getting increasing opportunities to get up close and personal with wildlife. Right on our doorstep, we have over 100 acres of open land with mature woodland, new plantings, streams, ponds, ditches, bogs and hills, etc., mostly only made available to us recently. It would make a great orienteering area, but for the blocks being separated by busy roads. There is a new stretch of open access wild land (Brookside Meadows) along about 1K of Rothley Brook, and just across the A46 slip road another 20 acres of wooded and landscaped land will be opened up within the next 12 months (Clanfelde Hills). At the other end of that block, and just across Ratby Lane, a new 8 acre nature reserve, full of landform features, has been opened, backing onto the half mile long Fishley Belt block of woodland, with ponds and streams. Linking all these, there are rights of way, or permissive paths, which also lead out into the existing green areas of Glenfield.

I am a member of the planning committee at Blaby and am appalled at the rate of house building in green spaces. There is, however, a massive shortfall in home provision, the demographic and political reasons for which we will not go into. It is down to the government to use the fiscal system to reward and encourage more 'brown field' developments. We do not need to further relax the planning rules; builders already have enough permissions, they just don't build them out. One thing we can do, as planners, is ensure that all larger developments include a good amount of green space that it is not always over manicured, and that green corridors are left to allow wildlife to migrate. By working with the developers at Optimus Point, we have achieved just that, and when New Lubbesthorpe is complete, that will also have a lot of off-road paths, green corridors and open spaces.

Retired Man Chronicles

As I was writing the last instalment of the RMC, John had gone skiing and Chris Bosley was in the ski party, too. There is an 'idiot of the day' award, and John managed to keep secret the incident of the helmet in the sink, as no-one else saw it. He went to wash his hands in the sink and placed his ski helmet in the adjacent bowl. The water system detects hands and turns on the water. Oh dear, it also filled his helmet, too! The other skiers thought that the water dripping down his face from the helmet was just sweat and he did not correct their ideas.

He did earn the 'idiot of the day' award for skiing off after a refreshment stop with someone else's skis and poles. It was more than an hour before he realised his mistake and skied back to the restaurant to find the real owner with the words 'I think YOU have lost some skis'. Note the subtle difference with 'I'm sorry, I have stolen your skis'! The man was reasonably pleasant about losing a lot of skiing time, but his wife was furious. Oh dear, it turned out that the couple were staying at the same hotel and on the same floor.

In early February, John returns from Brindley, Cannock, and is not very complimentary about the lack of organisation of the O event: controls that were not there and discussions about contactless dibbers. There are reports of contactless failures and there is no way of checking if a runner did, indeed, visit a control, as his/her visit is not recorded on the control box (which did happen with the old style dibbers). In his eagerness to demonstrate after a family get together, we have a few control boxes, start, finish and clear arranged between the empty chocolate cake plates and the fresh pineapple, and compare the new versus the old dibbers.

Kevin Gallagher had taken away the O equipment for the half term event in Beacon Hill, but there is a small blue plastic duck with an orange beak remaining in our hall. "What is this?" I ask. "Oh, it belongs to Peter Hornsby." It has some metal circular thing underneath. I am no wiser, but it does look cute!

I attended the Beacon Hill event with 3 year old grand-daughter, Hattie. We have brought back Peter's blue duck, but Hattie says "Peter is silly," as he tells her that his ducks go "Bah" not "Quack." Three year olds are not easily fooled, Peter. It was very, very cold at Beacon Hill. Hattie enjoyed dibbing, blowing the whistle (quietly) and breaking the ice on puddles. We completed most of the short course before retiring 'frozen'.

RM returns from Bestwood and challenges me to find the start triangle on the Bestwood map, and I struggle and need lots of help. One side of the triangle is printed on top of a fence and another side is on top of a northing line, and so both disappear. Also, the circle for control one and the start triangle are so close that there is no room for a connecting line between them. The triangle IS THERE, just very difficult to pick out.

RM celebrated his 70th birthday with a large, delicious, if fattening, cake from North's shop at Rothley station. (If you are local, you will understand the reference to the shop). It has dark green icing with a white compass and an O course iced on top. Around the edge, there are pine trees in darker green icing and the 3 controls bear the number 70. One of his presents is a purple t-shirt with the words 'You may think I am listening to you, but in my head I am thinking about Orienteering.'

The same day is the O club dinner, so even more eating. Time for me to catch up with a few wives: Judi Leake and Doreen Denney who want to know about the new heavy weight grandson, Charlie, 9lbs 6 oz, and a more normal size grand daughter, Millie Olivia, who is born a few weeks later. Thanks, Roy, for organising the food and the quiz of 4 photos of watery O areas. Trophies are presented for the winter/summer league, etc. and green jackets for event team members. Have they won the Augusta Masters golf tournament? No, the idea is that 'the public might distinguish club members who are a reliable source of information'. If you have time to be distracted, try Googling 'Golf's Green Jacket' for titbits of history and gossip. The winner of the first tournament in 1934 was Horton Smith and years later his jacket was sold at auction for $6,900,000. A silver salver was awarded to Peter Leake for lots of mapping, a trophy for Roger Phillips for the job of club captain and for social media information, and to an unsung hero, Alistair Patterson, for the 24 events where he has collected in controls. The infamous clock trophy is awarded to the LEI person who takes the longest time to finish an O course in an LEI area without retiring, being injured or popping in for a swift pint half way round. This year's winner, Simon Ford, was not present, as he was celebrating his golden wedding anniversary.

'Wear bright clothes' was the request for Sheila Titterington's funeral. RM has a white shirt in contrast to the pink and blue stripe tie and pink/red trousers. He thinks the funeral is at 2pm, then discovers it is 1pm and has to dash to Lutterworth. It is sad that you only find out details of a person's life, how they were instrumental in setting things up and helping others, when they have died. 'A life well lived'. We send our condolences to Bob and family.

A few weeks later, we hear that Bob has been playing 'freezer roulette', i.e. defrosting some unknown, unlabelled bag from the freezer to discover it is blackberries. It could equally have contained something savoury. Bob is off to the shops for an apple and shortcrust pastry to make a pie.

On 18th March, there are several inches of snow on the ground in Cropston. RM has got up early and put on lots of warm ski clothes as he is to man a road crossing at the Midlands Champs at Belvoir. There have already been messages on the website rearranging the parking areas.

John is clearing the snow off the car and the engine is running ready to go when the website details are updated again with 'The event is CANCELLED'. I rush to the front door. "It's cancelled," I shout. "What?" "It's cancelled." A few seconds later and RM would have set off.

Another possible disaster is averted on 20th April. RM had already booked air B&B accommodation for the British Radio O Champs. He has packed his clothes and gathered together his radio O receivers. etc., and is a little annoyed that the start lists are not on the internet yet. It is, then, that he discovers he has the wrong date and the champs are next weekend. John is not often early to an event; he could have been a whole week early. Fortunately, the air B& B lady is happy to alter his booking date.

RM comments after the British Champs radio O weekend, "It was great to see all our foreign friends again” and “I let Bob Titterington beat me twice.”

The sun is shining and the temperature soars for the Castle Hill park event from Anstey. It is a regional event and somehow there is a brown course available. I ask about Hornsby, as I have some of Peter’s favourite flapjack with me. “He’s not here today,” replies Pete Leake, “He’s off doing his annual dragon slaying.” Peter Hornsby plays St. George in his village event. I don’t often orienteer, so these IOF symbols are sometimes a puzzle. “What are these 2 eyelashes, John?” Answer: “a junction of two earth banks.” Iain Philips is running downhill and hiding in the shade of a big umbrella. He will be representing Britain in the trail O soon and shows us his bluey grey Great Britain jacket. RM was disappointed that they did not go to The Railway, but the Coach and Horses in Anstey, where there was no food and he got covered in spilled drink. In the friendly rivalry with Chris B, he tells me that Chris had forgotten to punch control no. 1 and was disqualified (again).

I try the evening event at nearby Watermead. There is a gap in the rain that has fallen all afternoon, but everywhere is really wet and muddy; what a contrast with the heat of Castle Hill on Sunday. All those Watermead ponds look the same, and thank you Roger E for mixing up controls 53 and 34. That’s my excuse for being last, having found just 7 of the 21 score event controls.

‘Accident prone’ is a good description for the RM’s next few weeks, as I arrive home to find him sitting on the settee with some bloody tissue on his forehead. He went onto the patio and bent down to pick up the lawn shears (left out overnight), slipped on the greasy, wet patio stones and landed on his bum. But the shears flew up in the air and hit him on the way down, leaving an egg sized bump and a small bloody gash on his forehead.

When RM returns from Burbage Common, he has big horizontal scratches, from a spiky bush, across his forehead and looks rather like Frankenstein’s monster after brain surgery! Finally, he plans courses for the summer league in The Outwoods and has to move a couple of controls from ‘monster’ bramble areas, as evidenced by all those scratches on his legs.

RM returns from Sence Valley and ‘Spoons in a better mood than of late. He has not been disqualified nor, even worse, retired, as had happened recently on the long course at OD’s Hay Wood. He is wondering if there should be a special prize for the person who achieves the most disqualifications in the league (would CB be a contender??).

Happy control hunting.

Summer League 2018

The fixtures are listed on the following pages. The events are informal, usually with a social element. Weekday starts are staggered from 6.30pm to 7.30pm - courses close at 8.30pm. (These times may be advanced by 30 minutes at either end of the season.) For details of the event type, i.e. score, classic or sprint, check on the LEIOC website.

Competitive events will use SI electronic punching (£1 hire).

Entry fees: Adults £4.50, Juniors £1.50

For results, please see www.leioc.org.uk .

Please confirm arrangements, either with the organiser or league coordinator. League scores are on standard handicaps, giving everyone a chance of success in the league if they perform as well as their age would suggest they should. Overall, it is the best 10 events to count with a sub league of sprint/urban events, with the best 4 counting. All events include a technical course. There will always be an introductory level course for novices and young children, and where practical an intermediate standard course.

Fixtures

This fixture list is intended to list events in and around the Midlands and neighbouring areas, plus other items likely to be of interest. Unless otherwise stated, local (D) and regional (C) events offer entry on the day (EOD) to a range of colour-coded courses, with start times from 10.30am to 12.30pm. Local events will only have a limited range of courses. National (B) and major (A) events provide a range of age-related courses and are normally entered in advance online. EOD will usually be limited and more expensive. Most will offer a limited number of colour-coded courses for EOD. The OS map reference is either the car park or point from which the event will be signposted. The list is based on BOF registration data, but events are sometimes cancelled. If you are uncertain as to whether an event will take place, check with the organiser, check on www.leioc.org.uk or check on www.britisshorienteering.org.uk. The editors take no responsibility for wasted journeys!

EVENT STRUCTURE IN FIXTURE LISTS

- Local (level D) = relatively low-cost events providing local competition and aimed at increasing participation.
- Regional (level C) = events providing a wider variety of venues and competitors.
- National (level B) = events providing opportunities for more experienced competitors, giving a wider variety of terrain and competition for those who are prepared to travel longer distances. Major (level A) = major UK events, the best that orienteering can offer.
